Saracen Gullwing lock secures AL-KO hitches

Leading accessory manufacturer Purple Line has introduced a new hitch lock to fit the increasingly popular AL-KO stabiliser hitches fitted to many European caravans.

The Saracen Gullwing FHL555 has been designed to secure the AL-KO AKS2004 and AKS3004 hitches fitted to top brands such as Bailey, Swift and Adria.

Developed to be highly secure and easy to fit, it joins the Saracen 50mm hitch lock and Nemesis wheel clamp in Purple Line's range of anti-theft products.

Purple Line's new Saracen Gullwing provides security for vans fitted with European-style AL-KO hitches.

Purple Line Australia director Malcolm Hill said the growing popularity of European vans had prompted the decision to add Gullwing to the Saracen range for Australia.

"The time is right to offer Saracen Gullwing to our Australian customers," he said.

"It is our top-selling hitch lock in Europe and the UK, and we have had lots of people asking for it to secure their European-built vans."

"Using Gullwing is simplicity itself – it takes less than a minute to install the locking receiver, and then the lock itself can be fitted in a few seconds with one hand."

Gullwing can be fitted whether the van is hitched or unhitched, and it comes in its own neat storage bag. It is distributed throughout Australia by Coast to Coast.
